

ABSTRACT

An apparatus and method for restraining the movement of the head of a person.
An apparatus and method for restraining the movement of the head of a person relative to a torso of the person. An apparatus and method for simultaneously engaging a plurality of constraints with the head of the person.